

ZFIN Jobs

Professional Opportunities with ZFIN

The ZFIN team periodically seeks candidates to work on the rapidly expanding Zebrafish Model Organism Database (zfin.org), our web-based database application providing curated, high-quality research information to the international biological research community.

Zebrafish research data are widely used to increase our understanding of human development and disease, and ZFIN helps enable this work. A great article detailing the importance of zebrafish research to human disease modeling is available on the Wellcome Trust Sanger Institute's website.

At the moment, there are no open positions. However, we encourage you to check back occasionally or contact us directly if you are interested in joining the ZFIN team. You might also want to check the Zebrafish-Related Job Announcements page for positions available in other zebrafish-related organizations.